

ETERNAL

New Joiner Guide
Your First Week at Eternal

For all new employees | Dubai, UAE | March 2026

Welcome to Eternal. We've thought carefully about how to make your first week count — not overwhelming, but purposeful. By the end of it, you'll know how we work, who to go to for what, and you'll have started building the relationships that will make the rest of your time here worthwhile.

Day 1 — Foundations

Today is about getting you settled and secure. Don't try to do too much.

- Arrive at 9:00 AM and check in with reception. You'll receive your access card, locker key, and a welcome pack.
- Meet your People & Culture contact — they'll walk you through the office, introduce you to the team, and hand over your MacBook or Windows device.
- Set up Microsoft 365 — your login credentials are in the welcome pack. Activate MFA immediately using Microsoft Authenticator.
- Join Microsoft Teams and introduce yourself in the #new-joiners channel. Tell us something about yourself beyond your job title.
- Complete the mandatory Information Security Induction on the Learning Hub (link in your welcome email). Estimated time: 1 hour. This must be completed on Day 1.
- Set up 1Password using the invitation sent to your Eternal email and store your credentials there from day one.

Day 2 — Tools and Team

Today you'll get access to the systems your role depends on and start meeting the people you'll work with most closely.

- Adobe Creative Cloud or Microsoft 365 advanced apps: Your line manager will confirm which licence applies to your role. Request access via the IT portal.
- Figma: Accept the team invite from your Creative lead. Start with the Brand Systems page in the Eternal shared library to understand how we work.
- Frame.io: IT will provision access. Review the active projects in your client folder.
- Expensify: Connect your account in preparation for any future expense claims.
- 1:1 with your line manager: A 45-minute informal session — no agenda, just a conversation about your background, first impressions, and what the next 30 days will look like.
- Team lunch: Your line manager will organise an informal lunch with your immediate team. This is important — we place high value on relationships.

Days 3–5 — Context and Clarity

By mid-week, the focus shifts from setup to understanding the business — our clients, our work, and our ways of working.

- Client orientation sessions: People & Culture will arrange 30-minute briefings with each active account lead. These give you context on who our clients are and what we're delivering for them.
- Brand immersion: Review the case studies and live brand systems on Figma and SharePoint. Ask your Creative Director for a guided walkthrough of a recent project.
- Complete your HR setup in Workday: Payroll details, emergency contact, visa documentation (if applicable), and medical insurance enrolment. Deadline: end of week 1.
- Set up your first weekly 1:1 cadence with your manager. Agree on day, time, and format — we recommend a standing 30-minute slot.
- Shadow a senior colleague in your function on a client call, internal review, or working session. Observe and take notes; there's no expectation to contribute yet.

Who to Contact

Contact	For What	Reach Them Via
IT Support	Device, software, access, VPN issues	it@eternal.ae / Teams #it-support
People & Culture	HR queries, payroll, leave, wellbeing	people@eternal.ae
Your Line Manager	Role, projects, day-to-day questions	Teams DM or in-person
Finance	Expenses, invoices, procurement	finance@eternal.ae
Reception	Access card, visitors, facilities	Ground floor, Studio A

One last thing: the best thing you can do in your first week is ask questions. There are no obvious questions here. We'd rather you ask and know than assume and get it wrong. We're glad you're here.